Hannam & Partners have worked with Mr Ingo Mueller over the last two years on a number of proposed merchant banking transactions.

In each instance Mr Mueller has been a personal investor in a business at a seed capital stage and has sought our support with further funding and investment or M&A advice.

In all cases we have seen him behave as a true merchant adviser - that is to say he has real capital invested in a situation and then commits considerable of his own energy and working resources to the development of the business.

He has an excellent nose for opportunity. He has experience across a number of business sectors. He has a strong focus on corporate governance. He commits the considerable the time and capital required to assemble first class management teams and advisers. He is extremely hard working.

We hope to continue working with him over coming years.
